UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN JOSE DIVISION

IN RE CLOUDERA, INC. SECURITIES
LITIGATION

Case No. 19-CV-03221-LHK

ORDER VACATING APPOINTMENT
OF LEAD PLAINTIFF AND LEAD
COUNSEL; DENYING AS MOOT
DEFENDANTS' ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION

Re: Dkt. No. 122

Before the Court is Defendants' administrative motion requesting modification of the schedule, which has been fully briefed. In their administrative motion, Defendants request additional time to respond to Plaintiffs' consolidated class action complaint to allow the court to determine whether the lead plaintiff process should be reopened as a result of the amendments in the operative complaint.

Having considered the submissions of the parties, the relevant law, and the record in this case, the Court hereby VACATES its order appointing lead plaintiff and lead counsel, ECF No. 85; ORDERS Klin to publish notice of its amended complaint in compliance with the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA") by April 3, 2020; and DENIES as moot Defendant's administrative motion requesting modification of the briefing schedule, ECF No. 117.

1           I. BACKGROUND

3           On June 7, 2019, Plaintiff Shanice Christie filed a securities class action complaint
4 (“Complaint”) against Defendant Cloudera, Inc. (“Cloudera”); its former Chief Executive Officer,
5 Thomas J. Reilly; its Chief Financial Officer, Jim Frankola; and its former Chief Strategy Officer,
6 Michael A. Olson (collectively, “Defendants”). ECF No. 1. The Complaint asserted two claims
7 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the “Exchange Act”) (codified at 15 U.S.C. § 78a–
8 78qq). The Complaint defined the class as “all purchasers of Cloudera common stock between 9 April 28, 2017 and June 5, 2019, inclusive.” Compl. ¶ 1.
10

11           Pursuant to the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (“PSLRA”), Christie published
12 notice of the action to potential lead plaintiffs. ECF No. 14-1 at 14–16; see 15 U.S.C. § 78u-
13 4(a)(3)(A). Subsequently, the Court received ten separate motions seeking appointment as lead
14 plaintiff. ECF Nos. 14, 17, 22, 26, 29, 34, 36, 43, 48, 54. On December 16, 2019, the Court
15 appointed Marius J. Klin and the Marius J. Klin MD PA 401K Profit Sharing Plan (collectively, 16 “Klin”) as lead plaintiffs pursuant to the PSLRA, 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(iii). ECF No. 85.
17

18           On February 14, 2020, Plaintiffs filed a consolidated class action complaint (the “CAC”).
19 ECF No. 91. The CAC added two named plaintiffs and added as defendants a number of 20 individuals and Intel Corporation. Id. The CAC also added new claims under the Securities Act
21 of 1933 (codified at 15 U.S.C. § 77a–77bbbb). Id. ¶¶ 50–133. Additionally, the CAC expanded
22 the class definition to include:
23

24           all persons who purchased and/or otherwise acquired Cloudera common stock: (i)
25 pursuant or traceable to the Registration Statement filed in connection with
26 Cloudera’s merger with Hortonworks, Inc. that closed on January 3, 2019
27 (“Merger”); and/or (ii) between April 28, 2017 and June 5, 2019, inclusive (the “Class Period”).
28

Id. ¶ 1 (emphasis added).

29           On February 29, 2020, Defendants Cloudera, Reilly, Frankola, and Olson (“Moving
30 Defendants”) filed an administrative motion requesting that the Court modify the parties’ briefing
31 schedule with respect to the anticipated motion to dismiss. ECF No. 117 (“Mot.”). Specifically,
32 Moving Defendants requested additional time in which to respond to the CAC so that the Court
33

1 could consider whether the lead plaintiff appointment process should be reopened due to the 2 changes to the CAC. Id. at 1. On February 29, 2020, Plaintiffs filed an opposition. ECF No. 119
3 (“Opp’n”). Following the Court’s order to file a reply, ECF No. 121, Moving Defendants filed a
4 reply on March 6, 2020, ECF No. 122 (“Reply”).

5 II. DISCUSSION

6 Moving Defendants argue that Plaintiffs’ additions in the CAC warrant reopening the lead
7 plaintiff process because they “fundamentally altered” the nature of this case. Reply at 1.
8 Plaintiffs argue that the CAC does not alter the class definition, and that Christie’s June 2019
9 publication was therefore sufficient. Opp’n at 4. The Court agrees with Moving Defendants.

10 Where changes to a securities class action complaint “make it likely that individuals who 11 could now be considered potential lead plaintiffs would have disregarded the earlier notice,” 12 courts in this district and elsewhere have ordered lead plaintiffs to republish notice under the 13 PSLRA. See, e.g., Kaplan v. S.A.C. Capital Advisors, L.P., 947 F. Supp. 2d 366, 367 (S.D.N.Y.
14 2013). Although “courts typically disfavor republication when a complaint is amended,” an 15 amended complaint with “substantial alteration of the claims can tilt the balance” in favor of 16 republication. Id. (quoting Waldman v. Wachovia Corp., No. 08 Civ. 2913, 2009 WL 2950362, at 17 *1 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 14, 2009)). Such an approach accords with the PSLRA’s purpose of ensuring 18 that absent class members and potential lead plaintiffs are aware of their rights. Teamsters Local 19 445 Freight Div. Pension Fund v. Bombardier, Inc., 2005 WL 1322721, at *2–3 (S.D.N.Y. Jun. 1, 20 2005).

21 For example, in In re Leapfrog, Inc. Securities Litigation, the 21-page initial complaint
22 “alleged that defendants made rosy statements about [the defendant’s] financial outlook.” 2005
23 WL 5327775, at *3 (N.D. Cal. July 5, 2005). Then, the 135-page amended complaint “include[d]
24 new allegations about [the defendant’s] distribution and supply chain,” which the district court
25 concluded “dramatically alter[ed] the contours of the lawsuit.” Id. More importantly, the court
26 noted that the plaintiffs substantially expanded the class period from six months to fifteen months.

1       Id. Under the considerably longer class period, at least one other investor had claimed losses of
2 over $10 million, which were nearly three hundred times more than the initial lead plaintiff's
3 losses of approximately $36,000. Id. The court concluded that such circumstances necessitated
4 republication "to ensure that the best plaintiff for the . . . new class period and new allegations
5 represented the class." Id.

6       Similarly, this Court has reopened the lead plaintiff process where an amended complaint
7 so significantly expanded the class that the Court could not assure itself that the initial publication
8 was adequate. Kipling v. Flex Ltd., No. 18-CV-02706-LHK, 2019 WL 1472358, at *2 (N.D. Cal.
9 Apr. 3, 2019). Specifically, the amended complaint "expand[ed] the putative class to include
10 shareholders who owned 'exchange-traded options' on Flex common stock, whereas [the] original
11 complaint (and notice) defined the class as only those who purchased "Ordinary Shares" of Flex
12 stock." Id. Moreover, the amended complaint "extend[ed] the class period by six months." Id.
13 As a result, the Court found that the plaintiffs' "changes to the amended complaint 'make it likely 14 that individuals who could now be considered potential lead plaintiffs would have disregarded the 15 earlier notice.'" Id. (quoting Kaplan, 947 F. Supp. 2d at 367).

16       Plaintiffs attempt to distinguish Leapfrog and Kipling and instead liken this case to Thomas
17 v. Magnachip Semiconductor Corp., No. 14-CV-01160-JST, 2015 WL 3749784 (N.D. Cal. Jun. 15, 18 2015). Opp'n at 5. There, the Court declined to reopen lead plaintiff process because it was 19 unlikely that "individuals who could now be considered potential lead plaintiffs would have 20 disregarded the earlier notice." Thomas, 2015 WL 3749784, at *4 (quoting Kaplan, 947 F. Supp.
21 2d at 367). The plaintiffs amended complaint expanded the class period length and added
22 additional defendants. Id. The plaintiffs also added new Securities Act claims to their existing 23 Exchange Act claims. Id. However, the court found that the amended complaint "still center[ed]
24 on the same factual scenario" as the original complaint and any new claims and defendants
25 "relate[d] to the same misrepresentations" as those in the original complaint. Id. Critically, the 26 court noted that "no new classes of securities or groups of plaintiffs have been added." Id. Thus,
27

1 the Court found that “proceeding without republication would not ‘potentially exclude qualified
2 movants from the lead plaintiff selection process.’” Id. (quoting Kaplan, 947 F. Supp. 2d at 367).

3 Admittedly, in this case, some of the amendments in the CAC are similar to those 4 considered by the court in Thomas. Specifically, the amendments add additional defendants and
5 add Securities Act claims to the existing Exchange Act claims. Compare Thomas, 2015 WL
6 3749784, at *4, with CAC ¶¶ 50–133. Moreover, in many respects, the CAC “still centers on the 7 same factual scenario” as the Complaint, see Thomas, 2015 WL 3749784, at *4. Even the new 8 Securities Act claims revolve around Cloudera’s merger with Hortonworks, which was previously
9 raised in the Complaint. Compare CAC ¶¶ 50–133, with Compl. ¶¶ 42–71. Had these been the 10 only changes to the amended complaint, the Court would not order republication or reopen the 11 lead plaintiff process.

12 Nonetheless, the Court cannot agree with Plaintiffs that the amendments in the CAC are as 13 insubstantial as those in Thomas. In addition to the amendments discussed above, the CAC
14 substantially alters the class definitions. Specifically, the Complaint defined the class as “all 15 purchasers of Cloudera common stock between April 28, 2017 and June 5, 2019, inclusive.”
16 Compl. ¶ 1 (emphasis added). The CAC expanded the class definition to include:

17 all persons who purchased and/or otherwise acquired Cloudera common stock: (i)
18 pursuant or traceable to the Registration Statement filed in connection with
19 Cloudera’s merger with Hortonworks, Inc. that closed on January 3, 2019
 (“Merger”); and/or (ii) between April 28, 2017 and June 5, 2019, inclusive (the “Class Period”).

20 CAC ¶ 1 (emphasis added). This new class definition adds an entire group of putative class
21 members who did not purchase Cloudera common stock, but rather acquired Cloudera stock in 22 exchange for their Hortonworks stock upon the merger of Cloudera and Hortonworks. See CAC ¶
23 47 (explaining that, upon closing of the merger, each share of Hortonworks stock would 24 “automatically be converted” into the right to receive 1.305 shares of Cloudera common stock).
25 Plaintiff conclusorily asserts that the CAC does not change the pool of lead plaintiff movants.
26 Opp’n 4. Contrary to Plaintiffs’ assertion, the CAC inarguably expanded the class definition to

1 include former shareholders of Hortonworks who acquired and did not purchase their Cloudera
2 stock during the Class Period.

3 Given these changes, the Court finds that the June 2019 publication was insufficient
4 because “individuals who could now be considered potential lead plaintiffs would have 5 disregarded the earlier notice.” See Kaplan, 947 F. Supp. 2d at 367. Consistent with the former 6 class definition in the Complaint, the June 2019 publication announced that the case was brought
7 “on behalf of all purchasers of Cloudera common stock during the Class period.” ECF No. 14-1
8 at 15 (emphasis added). The Court finds it likely that a former Hortonworks shareholder, who 9 never purchased any Cloudera stock but only received Cloudera stock during the merger, would 10 have disregarded this notice. As Defendants note, the appearance in the CAC of two new named 11 plaintiffs, Cade Jones and Larry Lenick, bolsters this conclusion. Reply at 2; see CAC ¶¶ 64–65.
12 Both Jones and Lenick were former shareholders of Hortonworks who acquired and did not 13 purchase their Cloudera stock during the Class Period. See CAC ¶¶ 64–65. Neither one
14 responded to the June 2019 publication by seeking to be appointed as lead plaintiff. In these 15 unique circumstances, the Court finds that it must reopen the lead plaintiff process to ensure that 16 the goals of the PSLRA are effectuated.

17 Accordingly, the Court hereby VACATES its order appointing Klin as lead plaintiff and 18 appointing Levi & Korsinsky, LLP as lead counsel. ECF No. 85. The Court hereby ORDERS
19 Plaintiffs to publish notice of the CAC in compliance with the PSLRA by April 3, 2020. Pursuant 20 to 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(A)(i), any member of the purported classes seeking appointment as 21 lead plaintiff shall have 60 days thereafter to file a motion seeking appointment as lead plaintiff.<sup>1</sup>

22

23 <sup>1</sup> The Court need not decide at this time “whether to appoint separate lead plaintiffs to litigate
24 separately the [Securities Act] and [Exchange Act] claims.” See In re Gemstar-TV Guide Int'l,
25 Inc. Sec. Litig., 209 F.R.D. 447, 450 (C.D. Cal. 2002). However, it is possible that one lead
26 plaintiff may adequately represent all putative class members, because “[t]he PSLRA presumes 27 that the ‘lead plaintiff can vigorously pursue all available causes of action against all possible defendants under all available legal theories.’” See id. (quoting Aronson v. McKesson HBOC, Inc., 79 F. Supp. 2d 1146, 1151 (N.D. Cal. 1999)).

1           Because the Court reopens the lead plaintiff appointment process, the Court also 2 VACATES the briefing schedule for Defendants' anticipated motion to dismiss, ECF No. 87. The 3 Court will set a new schedule upon appointment of lead plaintiff and lead counsel. The Court thus
4 DENIES as moot Moving Defendants' administrative motion to alter the briefing schedule, ECF
5 No. 117.
